

BIG MAC has two favorite places at the farm. The first place you can find him is in a crowd of people standing around talking! He loves people and people love him, he is super charming! The second place you can find him is at the fishing hole up behind the farm in the hills. Sometimes he will spend the entire day by the fishing hole just rooting and grazing in the sunshine. Big Mac has a heart of gold and is a great pet pig ambassador! He shows everyone and anyone what great companions pigs can be!

SIR OINKS A LOT was rescued from a high kill dog and cat shelter. Sir Oinks A Lot has had a hard time warming up to humans. It's hard to determine what happened in his past that has caused his aggressive nature towards all people. Good news is he has landed at the right place because we don't ask anything of Sir Oinks A Lot. He just gets to be a pig and pal around with the other not so sweet pigs in our care. We have affectionately named the group the "Biter Boys Village Crew". These pigs will most likely stay with us the rest of their lives.

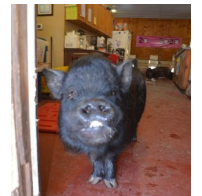

PIGLETS—Throughout the year, various piglets are surrendered or rescued and brought to us. These little piglets stay in the nursery where Nigel (an elder pig) watches over them and teaches them proper pig behavior. Although the piglets do tend to be adopted quicker than the older pigs, they come needing a lot of initial medical care and training.

MILKSHAKE was the resident pig at Greensgrow Farms in Philadelphia for many years and had contact with many people each day. Due to the recent closing of Greensgrow Farms, Milkshake was brought to us. Milkshake has quite a fan base – he was even the “unofficial” mayor of Kenningston at one point. We are still learning more about Milkshakes personality...but we do know he loves to be outdoors and grazing on the land. He's trying to figure out the whole “other pigs” thing but does great with people.

FRANK THE SWIENTIST is a very socialized pig and is a real sweetheart. He came to Ross Mill Farm in August 2022. He was a research pig who was used in a memory study at a local university where there was no harm done to him. And yes, he passed all the tests! Yucatan pigs are often used in research due to their pleasant personality and their manageable size. He is not an indoor pig and definitely prefers his outdoor pen.

WILBUR originally arrived at Ross Mill Farm to participate in our weight reduction program. As time went on, the family suffered some financial hardships and were forced to surrender him. Wilbur adapted to life at the farm but misses having a family. He's such a wonderful pig! He'll be an ideal pet pig for a family because he is social and good-natured. And he's never had a belly rub he didn't love!

DEFOE—Introducing the wonderful little lady Defoe! She's a very sweet and timid girl. She's not much of a rooter, but she loves being outside and spending her days grazing. Defoe is a victim of severe inbreeding and is missing some bones in her rear legs. This causes significant mobility issues, but she scoots around and gets where she needs to get. Her weight has to be kept at a consistent level and her diet will forever need to be closely monitored due to her mobility issues.
